German Retrograde Movement in Flanders is Not Yet At An End. Northeast of Soissons the Huns Reacted and Counter Attacked, But Were Repulsed by the French, Who Take Prisoners From Five Different Divisions.

(By The War Editor of The Associated Press)

After pausing for several days along the line west and northwest of Cambrai, where the Germans settled themselves last week behind the Canal Du Nord, the British today are reported attacking a section of this line in considerable strength.

What is unofficially described as a "formidable thrust" was developed this morning by Field Marshal Haig's forces along the Arras-Cambrai road which crosses the canal six miles from Cambrai.

It is definitely reported, however, that on the line to the south the British are pressing forward toward St. Quentin, and now are only five miles from the Hindenburg line in this area where the German retreat has been slowest and resistance greatest.

Successes also have been scored by the French in the St. Quentin region where their line joins the British. There have been indications that the Germans intended making a stand along the Crozat Canal defending the stronghold of LaFere, the principal outlying protection of the St. Gobain massif on the north. This plan appears already to have been frustrated by the French, however, a crossing of the canal about three miles northwest of LaFere having been forced last night by General Petain's forces.

Elsewhere the French are right up to the Crozat positions along virtually the entire length of the canal with their infantry only four miles from St. Quentin and their cavalry patrols hard upon LaFere.

There has been no further marked advance by the French along the more southerly stretches of the St. Gobain defenses before Laon where the German resistance is of the most desperate character. The enemy is reported to have massed enormous numbers of guns in this region and to be hurriedly strengthening the already strong positions. Inroads have been made upon the massif on the west by the French, however.

Northeast of Soissons the Germans reacted, counter attacking in the LaFaux region in strong force. The French repulsed the drive and took prisoners from five different regiments—an indication of a considerable massing of forces by the enemy in this limited area.

The German retrograde movement in Flanders seemingly is not yet at an end. Their artillery is now reported to have been removed to the east of the Lys river.

AMERICANS ADVANCE

Reports on the situation along the Aisne where the Americans have been facing the Germans abreast the canal paralleling the river on a long stretch were lacking today. The latest advices, however, show the Americans to have pushed their lines further forward east of Revillon. The village of Muscourt, about three miles east of Revillon, was reported to be in American hands.

ROLL OF HONOR

Of the 599 Americans in the three casualty lists issued today, 20 are Ohioans. Seven of the total number are included in the Marine Corps list, Sergeant Ray Anderson, Akron, O., being among the killed.

(By Associated Press Cable)

With the French Army, Sunday, September 8.—The troops of General Mangin between the Aisne and Oise rivers now are virtually behind their old wire entanglements in their old trenches of 1917. All along the edge of the forest of Coucy and through the western portion of the St. Gobain forest the Germans are only 200 yards away and in some places they are in positions in the old Hindenburg line that are plainly visible from the heights about Chateau Coucy.

The Oise canal and River Ailette that runs between the heights and the Chateau, and which forms a point of their advanced main line six miles further back at Fresnoes were not abandoned voluntarily but wrested from the enemy after a struggle of five days during which five different German divisions tried to hold off a single French division.

URGES POOLING OF ALLIED RESOURCES

LORD ROBERT CECIL

Lord Robert Cecil, British Assistant Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, in a recent address at London urged the pooling of all the Allied resources. He said: "The principal organization for which we are pressing is control of Allied shipping and complete examination and control of Allied needs and also Allied resources to supply those needs. It is the co-ordination of the Allied needs and Allied resources with Allied shipping which would make an overwhelming economic power of the alliance to which we all belong."

WILD TALES CIRCULATED IN RUSSIA

Bolsheviki Control All Avenues of News and Give People Only German Censored and False News.

United States Rent Asunder by Great Indian Uprising Among Published "News."

(By Associated Press Cable)

Stockholm, Sept. 9.—The lack of reliable information possessed by Finland and Sweden concerning internal affairs in Russia was shown the Italian and French refugees who have just arrived from Ussul.

The Bolsheviki groups and propagandists have the field to themselves as they choose. Consequently the Germans censored dispatches and Russian wireless press supply the outside world with Russian news. Meantime neutral nations as well as the Bolsheviki are suffering from the pernicious campaign of falsification. Russia is given little foreign news except that which indicates weakness of the entente powers and strength of the Central powers.

Among many wild stories circulated in Russia is that the United States is suffering from a great Indian uprising, revolutions are in progress all over the world; that food is scarce among the Entente powers and people in England and other Entente nations are dying of hunger. The Bolsheviki, it seems, are trying to create the impression that all the world is starving and calling out for a proletarian form of government.

Provost Marshal General Crowder has arrived in New York presumably in connection with the general slacker roundup, which is now going on in the city. Upon the shoulders of Marshal Crowder rests the responsibility of enrolling thirteen million men under the new Man-Power act and classifying them as to their fitness for military duty. It is expected he will investigate the New York draft board conditions in reference to their ability to handle the new draft while he is in the city.

SGT. OTTO LEE BACK FROM FRANCE TO BE GENERAL INSTRUCTOR

Left M Company After Hard Fighting at Chateau-Thierry and Will Soon Be Assigned to Camp as General Instructor in Modern Warfare.

Sergeant Otto Lee, M. Company, 16th. Rainbow Division, arrived home from France Sunday evening, and will be assigned to some camp or cantonment in America as an instructor in modern warfare. He will be in the city for a few days while awaiting assignment to some camp.

Sergeant Lee, whose wife resides in this city, is a son of LaFayette Lee, of Madison Mills, and he will spend part of his time with his parents while in Fayette county.

Sergeant Lee was detached from M Company soon after the battle of Chateau-Thierry, in which the Rainbow Division experienced its heaviest casualties, the fighting being largely in open ground with less protection than the Rainbows had around Perth, on the Champaign front when the German offensive was at its height.

At the Ourcq river the hardest fighting in which M Company had been engaged, was experienced, the battle raging furiously, with the 16th suffering many casualties. Sergeant Lee did not know of any additional deaths in M Company other than those reported to date.

It has been some four weeks since he left France, and consequently he has seen more fighting than any other Fayette county man back from the front.

He is the third Fayette county man to return as an instructor, and at the time of leaving this city was a corporal.

ATTENDED FUNERAL OF WILLIAM JONES

Judge Joseph Hidy and Mr. Frank Johnson returned Saturday evening from attending the funeral of Mr. William H. Jones, in Sullivan county, Indiana, held Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Jones was one of the leading citizens of his community, and was one of the pioneers in the construction of a 17 mile concrete levee along the Wabash river, which made possible the reclamation of thousands of acres of highly fertile soil.

Because of his popularity an immense throng attended the funeral service which were in charge of Rev. Dr. Part, of Indianapolis.

Mr. Jones, who was a brother of Mr. Humphrey Jones, deceased, left this county some twenty years ago and had prospered and become a man of great influence throughout his community.

MAYOR JOHN GALVIN OF CINCINNATI, IN CITY AFTER 33 YEARS

After 33 years, Mayor John Galvin, of Cincinnati, paid this city another visit Sunday night and Monday, when he and Hon. John G. Price, of Columbus Republican candidate for Attorney General of Ohio, were guests of Mr. Jess W. Smith, president of the Ohio State Elks Association.

Mayor Galvin and Mr. Price and Mr. Smith, who form the committee named by the Grand lodge of Elks to have charge of the construction of a community building in the Camp Sherman group, motored to Camp Sherman Monday morning for the purpose of closing arrangements for the actual construction of the Elks Community Building, the appropriation for the building having been allowed by the trustees of the National War Work fund of the Elks Lodge.

FEW SLACKERS IN FAYETTE COUNTY

It is expected that when the men of 18 to 46 register for military service, Thursday of this week, that Fayette county's number of slackers, or draft evaders, can be counted upon the fingers of one hand.

There is every reason to believe that the men will respond as one man, and the registration will be complete. The willingness of the average man to register is apparent on all sides, as every loyal American is determined to see the war through to a successful conclusion.

Citizens who are neighbors of men of draft age who cannot read, or write are urged to call upon such neighbors so that they may be informed of the necessity of registering.

RESTAR SERVICE FLAG OF CHURCH

Sunday morning at Grace M. E. Church, one hundred and thirteen stars were placed on the Methodist service flag, in the presence of a large audience.

The choir sang very appropriate music, Miss Dorothy Rogers contributing a beautiful contralto solo.

This flag does not purport to be primarily a church membership list, or a Grace church Sunday school scholarship list, but includes the names of young men not members of Grace church or Sunday school, but whose families are Methodists, or are some way identified with that church.

As announced at the service, some of the boys' names have not been in this town for some time, and some few belong to other churches and Sunday schools, but their immediate families thought they would like to have them represented on the flag, and so their stars were placed.

The service flag committee, Miss Edith Gardner, Mrs. Frank Kennedy, Mrs. C. A. Teeters, Miss Fannie McLean, Mrs. Glenn Rodgers, Mrs. Walter Hamilton, Mr. Henry Brownell and Mr. Herman Price, together with the 18 group chairmen, and the pastor, will continue to keep a list of the others who go from time to time, and will appreciate any information from the families of those who go, or of any omissions.

The one gold star placed on the flag is for Earl Thomas, whose grandfather was a Methodist minister. The names of those represented by the stars are:

GREAT WORK OF ALLIED BOMBERS

(Associated Press Correspondence) Behind British Lines in France, September 1.—More than 244,000 pounds of bombs were dropped in a single day recently by pilots of the British air force on objectives behind the German lines.

In a week, military establishments at twelve places were attacked by air 23 times by the British air force. Captured documents showed that the German army communications had been seriously interrupted at several points.

A report from Metz shows that a recent raid when the gas works and a number of other important military objectives were heavily bombed, a part of the civil population was sent to Luxembourg.

A prisoner stated that while he was in Valenciennes, most of the important factories in that city were damaged by bombs from the airplanes which were so high up that they were invisible from the ground. One large factory with four or five chimneys was almost completely demolished.

RUMANIANS SAY AUSTRIANS STARVE

(Associated Press Correspondence) Paris, September 5.—Hundreds of starving Austrians in the capital city of Vienna recently surrounded a train on which a party of Rumanians was traveling to France and begged piteously for bread, according to the Rumanians who have now arrived here.

The party asking for food gathered about the train in the Hitzing quarter of Vienna where some of the most well-to-do people of Vienna live, said Captain R. Rosetti of the Rumanian army. They told the Rumanians that turnips, beets and potatoes constitute almost the only food of a large part of the population of Austria.

There were more than 300 men, women and children in the party that surrounded the train, said Colonel Rosetti, and almost everyone expressed horror at the continuance of the war and bitterly reproached Germany for the desperate plight in which they found themselves.

Their faces were pinched and pale and showed unmistakably that they had borne intense privations and suffering. Several among the number declared there must soon be a widespread revolution in Austria if steps were not taken to feed the population.

The Director General's Report

Director General McAdoo's report to President Wilson is a voluminous one and yet, considering the magnitude of the subject with which it deals, is remarkably concise. It covers the seven-months period during which the nation has been operating the railroads.

The Director General of the railroads of the nation discloses clearly that the aim has been to secure increased transportation facilities and better and more prompt delivery of necessities with, of course, as little increased cost in operating expenses as is possible to secure the primary results.

So far as the financial end is concerned the railroads have not been, to the government, a paying proposition and that is no disappointment because their acquisition was not for the purpose of financial gain.

The railroads have not been a paying proposition under private control during the last half dozen years, and when the tremendously increased business, resulting from the war, was heaped upon them, the service broke down under the strain. They had almost ceased to function at all. Congestion in the vital arteries threatened ruinous paralysis of the whole national body. The railroads were powerless to better conditions and conditions had to be bettered or the work of war could not be proceeded with. The government had the money and the authority to overcome the barriers of legislative control and the government, by acquiring control, expending millions and organizing the man-power, has brought results.

Essential commerce is moving, congestion has practically disappeared and that's the one big purpose.

When the urgency is past the financial end will be an important subject of discussion and consideration—until then we are interested, almost to the exclusion of everything else, in results, and results have been secured. We did not need the report of Director General McAdoo to inform us of that fact.

This Country of Ours

When the autumn season comes and the first frosts have painted the foliage of the forests with every color from the brightest and most brilliant and flaming reds to the somber browns and silver grays, when the corn is cut and shocked in rows and squares in the fields, with golden pumpkins revealed in all their beauty on the bare ground, with the barns and granaries filled with the year's harvests, the turkeys taking on a size sufficient to guarantee the center piece around which will be built the Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners, with the frosty mornings, the thin coats of ice on ponds and brooks and all the multiplied beauty of the season, then we believe that autumn is the best time of all.

We feel the same way when spring sunshine brings the trees into bud and the blossoms into full bloom and when summer settles down to real production and finishing work in the fields. When we see the wheat turn to gold, the meadows ripen for the reapers, then summer with its fire-flies abroad in countless millions flashing over the harvest fields at evening, seems best of all.

Then, when winter comes with its snow and ice, with its holiday seasons and cozy indoor hours with family and friends, all comfortable and warm, safe indoors while the storm king roars outside, we think winter is the best of all seasons.

So it goes the year through—and year after year the same—that's humanity—that's why we like to live and enjoy all these blessings that are ours.

Then the resident of every community thinks his particular section is just a little better than any other. The residents of the non-productive hill sections loves the grandeur of his region and is content to do with less and be allowed to live in peace and quiet and to commune, undisturbed, with nature, pleased and content with the simple things of life.

Nations are the same, because nations are only people after all—just like ourselves. We want to live—we love life and we love our homes, our community and our institutions. We want to live our own lives with the folks we love and in the land we love and we want those who are to come after us to have the same right.

That's patriotism and democracy—that's what people are fighting to preserve from tyrants—individual and national freedom. That right belongs to us all individually and collectively. We all have our "peculiar" likes and dislikes and the world belongs to all men, not to one man nor to a self-appointed few.

That's the kind of a country this is and that's the kind of a country we propose to preserve.

Poetry For Today

THE YANKEES ON THE MARNE
 (According to T. Atkins)
 Oh, the English and the Irish, and
 the 'owlin' Scotties, too,
 The Canucks and Austrelyans, and the 'airy French Polu—
 The only thing that bothered us a year before we knew,
 Was 'own in 'ell the Yanks 'ud look an' wot in 'ell they'd do.

They 'adn't 'ad no trynein', they didn't know the gyne.
 They 'adn't never marched it much
 —theid shootin' was the syne;
 An' the only thing that bothered us
 that day in lawst July Was 'ow in 'ell the Line 'd 'old if they should run aw'y.

Them leggy, nosey new 'uns, just come across the sea—
 We couldn't 'elp but wonder 'ow in 'ell their guts 'ud be.
 An' the only thing that bothered us
 in all our staggerin' ranks
 Was wot in 'ell 'ud 'appen w'en the 'Uns 'ad 'it the Yanks.

They didn't 'ave no tactics but the bloody manuel,
 They 'adn't learned no horders but
 "Ooray!" an' "Give 'em 'ell!"
 But the only thing that bothered us about them leggy lads
 Was 'ow in 'ell to get the chow to feed their "Kamerads!"

So we're standin' all together in a stiffish firin' line,
 If anyone should ask you, you can say we're doin' fine,
 But the only thing that bothers us—
 an' that don't bother much—Is 'ow in 'ell to get the dirt to bury all the Dutch.

Gaw's trewh! it's rotten fightin' that all our troops 'as seen,
 The 'Un's a dirty p'yer, becoss 'e's alwus been;
 But the only thing that bothers us
 in 'andin' 'im our thanks
 Is 'ow in 'ell we'd done it if it were't for the Yanks.

Oh, the English and the Irish, an'
 the 'owlin' Scotties, too,
 The Canucks and Austrelyans, an'
 the 'airy French Polu,
 The only thing that bothered us
 don't bother us no more;
 It's why in 'ell we didn't know the Yankee boys before!

AMERICANS MAKE GOOD MATES SAYS A FRENCH WRITER

(Associated Press Correspondence)

Paris, August 17.—"Let me give you a little advice," says a writer in the "Intransigeant," addressing himself to the maidens of France. "There are many Americans in France and you know very well how charming they find you. They find our women more disposed to be fellow workers with them than those of other countries, they appreciate you highly, but, my dear little French girls, you must not be frivolous. Americans are grown-up children, somewhat ingenuous, a trifle puritan, and quite ready to marry you, and an American husband and a French wife make an excellent married couple. So do not waste the chance of that marked purity which is so seldom found among the men of ancient Europe."

Another writer, in the Petit Journal, welcomes the report that American-French marriages are becoming very common, as excellent from the idyllic and sentimental point of view also for the fusion of the two races, but expresses some anxiety as to its effect on the repopulation of France. He fears that when the war is over, the American husbands will carry away their French wives across the Atlantic and France will lose that many households, a loss that the country is in no condition to stand.

The writer quotes a letter that he has received from a French girl, engaged to an American, in which she says that she had laid down no conditions in accepting the proposal but had made her fiancé understand that after the war there would be work for everyone in France and so he had promised to remain in France and if children came they should be French citizens.

"There's a good example," comments the article. "Let all French girls follow it. America will not perceptibly poorer and France will be enriched. It is one more kind act that we can beg from our allies and one they are not likely to refuse."

WELFARE WORKERS OF COUNTY MEET

Addresses of Interest Made by Miss Stewart, Director of State Nurses Department and Dr. C. V. Lanum of this City, Much Appreciated.

One of the most interesting and helpful meetings that have been held by the Child Welfare workers of Fayette county took place Saturday afternoon in the Federated Club rooms at the Y. M. C. A.

With Mrs. D. H. VanWinkle, chairman of the committee of National Defense in the presiding officer's chair, the first part of the meeting was devoted to the subject of Dental Clinics, for our rural schools. The children's bureau of the Department of Labor has instructed the Child Welfare Committee for each county to do all in its power to establish dental clinics in both city and rural schools.

Since the dental clinic is already established in the city schools the committee will concentrate its efforts upon its establishment in the rural districts.

Dr. C. V. Lanum had charge of the first part of the meeting. His lecture was one of the most helpful that has been given to the Fayette county workers. He showed the importance of taking care of the baby teeth and illustrated his points by showing impressions he has made of perfect jaws and teeth resulting from proper care of baby teeth. In contrast to these he showed impressions he had made of children's permanent teeth where no care had been put upon the baby teeth. He spoke of the effect of bad teeth upon the general health and especially upon the nervous systems of children. He also emphasized the importance of physical examinations for school children in order to find out their defects, remedy them and thereby give them the physical and mental chance that every child is entitled to. Dr. Lanum proved himself an able instructor, and numerous questions asked by the audience were answered in a most scholarly and scientific way.

Miss Helena R. Stewart, director of the State Nursing Service, had charge of the latter half of the meeting. She urged the Child Welfare workers not to give up their efforts until Fayette county had a public health nurse. One third of our soldiers were rejected because of being physically unfit and most of this unfitness could have been remedied had it been cared for in childhood. A nurse is an ever growing necessity at this time. Fayette county stands very near the top in taking care of her animals but very near the bottom in looking after public health conditions affecting her children. The state is especially interested in Fayette county and the other eight counties of Ohio that have fallen down in their government work this summer, so Miss Stewart has offered the county the services of the State Nurses' Commission.

This commission will come here free of charge, give an examination to each child and make a survey of health conditions. The State Blind Commission has also offered its services to examine free of charge all children for diseases of the eye, ear, nose and throat.

A committee was appointed by Mrs. C. Graham Beckel, county child welfare chairman, to take up the work of the dental clinic for our rural schools.

Mrs. D. H. VanWinkle announced the semi-annual meeting of the Woman's Committee of the Council of National Defense to take place two weeks from Saturday, September 21st.

The Child Welfare Committee of Fayette county is working every day upon some phase of the government work, and interest in it is gradually increasing although it is not the duty of this committee to make family investigations, it has done so to a certain extent because so many urgent cases have made appeals to it during the summer. Cases of filth, improper housing, juvenile delinquency, open wells, etc., have been reported to the proper authorities.

September is the typhoid month and that disease is now on the increase in this county. It is an evident fact that only by effort, efficiency and co-operation can Fayette county put herself further up on the list of public health, and in these crucial times our patriotism alone ought to inspire us to double our efforts along these lines.

SALVATION ARMY RECEIVES TRIBUTE

A letter from one of our boys overseas cannot praise too highly the work of the Red Cross and also that of the Salvation Army. He thinks that in this section we probably do not realize the immense amount of work the Salvation Army is doing and how much it means to the boys.

The last paragraph of the letter says all the boys of the 136th Ambulance Company are well and in good spirits, is indeed welcome news.

6-YEAR-OLD LAD'S FACE IS CRUSHED BY KICK OF HORSE

Son of Newton Beatty, Residing on Cline Farm in Paint Township, Probably Fatally Injured When Horse Kicked Him Sunday.

Paul, the little six-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Newton Beatty, residing on the Cline farm six miles north of Bloomingburg, was probably fatally injured, Sunday morning about 10:30 o'clock, when a horse kicked him, the blow striking the child in the face crushing his jaws, leaving two or three terrible cuts and bruises and inflicting injuries from which the child may never recover.

The little lad, with some other children, was playing about the lot in which the horses were grazing, when he picked up a piece of wire and struck the horse about the legs. The horse kicked violently, catching Paul full in the face.

In addition to crushing the lower jaw, breaking it on both sides and otherwise injuring the lad, it left him in an unconscious condition from which he did not recover for several hours.

Physicians were summoned and it was found necessary to wire the jawbones together and take several stitches in the ugly wounds inflicted.

Monday the little fellow was resting as easy as possible considering the shocking nature of his wounds.

It is believed that if his skull is not crushed, as at first feared, and complications do not arise, he has a fair chance for recovery, although his condition is very serious.

JOY RIDERS WERE VERY FEW SUNDAY; VIOLATORS SCORED

"Dobbin" More in Evidence Than Previous Sunday and Only Few Violations Are Reported—Observance Proof of Loyalty of Fayette Countians.

There were very few violations of the government order for conservation of gasoline, Sunday and the few persons who used their cars for pleasure riding were hissed and scored by citizens in general until their "pleasure" was turned into the most uncomfortable ride they ever experienced. Cold stares and reprimands were met on all hands when the few violators passed, except in cases where the drivers broke the speed limits in order to escape the gibes hurled at them from all sides. This did not prevent their numbers being taken, however.

A very, very few cars were used in church going, and placards bearing the information "church," "to church," etc., brought forth flocks of smiles.

A party of autoists, believed to be pleasure riders, were passing over one of the main streets when a tire blew out. As a result the machine was speedily surrounded by men and boys who made it so highly uncomfortable for the party that they were mighty glad to hurry onward as soon as the tire was replaced. Not a gallon of gasoline was sold during the day, all garages being closed throughout the day.

The observance in the rural districts was generally rigid, as those who had used their machines the previous Sunday had their eyes opened to the bitterness directed against all pleasure riders.

On the Creek Road D. B. Willhite, with a two-horse wagon, picked up quite a number of neighbors and hauled them to church at Sugar Grove all enjoying the event.

Horse drawn vehicles in a surprisingly large number were much in evidence, and the quiet on the principal streets of the city was pronounced and much enjoyed. Many citizens openly declared it was the first rest that they had had, outside of the previous Sunday, in a decade. A few—a very, very few evaders of the order, followed the practice indulged the previous Sunday, of starting out before daylight, and returning after nightfall. However this was expected, and their numbers were picked up in several cases, so that there is likelihood of their being called upon the carpet in the near future to explain.

The loyalty of Fayette county citizens generally has been proven beyond question, and the remaining "gasless" Sundays will be observed just as strictly as that just passed.

THIRTY-FIVE KILLED TRANSPORT IS HIT

(American Press)

Washington, Sept. 9.—Thirty-five members of the crew of the American army transport Mt. Vernon, formerly the North German Lloyd liner Kronprinzessin Cecilie, were killed by the explosion of a torpedo which struck the vessel last Thursday when she was 200 miles from the French coast, homeward bound. The passengers included Senator Lewis of Illinois, who was among those safely landed after the transport returned to a French port under her own steam.

Vice Admiral Sims reported to the navy department that the torpedo struck the transport on the starboard side, flooding No. 4 fire room, but he did not state the extent of the damage. Navy officials assumed, however, that since the vessel was able to reach port under her own power she was not badly damaged.

The men killed were firemen, engineers and water tenders and probably were on duty in the flooded fire room. The dead include two Ohioans: J. E. Crabtree of Beaver and S. McK. Rivers of Buena Vista.

MYRTLE STINSON Y. M. C. A. WORKER NEAR BATTLEFRONT

Tells of Terrors Attending Work Within Hearing of the Deadly Grenade's Noise and in Sector Bombed Almost Nightly.

Teaches English to Poles and French in Zone Where Danger Hovers Near.

The thrill of constant danger and the incessant work among the French and Polish armies where she is teaching the English language and performing Y. M. C. A. duties generally, are discussed in the accompanying letter by Miss Myrtle Stinson, sister of Mr. W. L. Stinson, the well known live stock dealer of Greenfield. Mr. Stinson has kindly submitted the letter for publication. It follows:

Dear Folks:

I cannot remember when I wrote the last letter. I think not many days since, but things happen so thick and fast, or as our old janitress at Athens used to say "so sudden nowadays" that I can always find plenty to talk about, if I only had the time and strength to do it. Today has been an unusual day, so I shall tell you a little about it before I go to bed. I have just returned from a walk up the mountain to get a view of the landscape under full moon and I shall probably fall asleep shortly.

But, to return to the events of the day. Gen. MacMahon came and reviewed our new troops. The entire army or school (seven hundred only) formed on the place or public square, and all the officers in their best uniforms and the General reviewed them. It was a great day for the boys. Six hundred of these boys are Parisians and are fine lads, 17, 18 and 19 years old. They have been in the army three months and this is their first real camp life. They are light-hearted and gay after the true fashion of the Parisian. After the formal military ceremonies were over they sang for the General. There could be no wider contrast than that of the spirit of the French and Polish music. I have never heard anything like the Polish songs. They just lift you up and entirely out of yourself, while the French music just tickles your fancy, as it were, and as soon as it is over you forget it; but every man, no matter how old, can sing these light love and dance songs and during the singing the General as well as the officers all joined in, much to the delight of the boys. The whole performance was very interesting. Except for the uniforms of the soldiers, there was little to suggest war. Yet last night we had our usual air raid. Several bombs were dropped, but did no harm to us, while we brought down an enemy plane. The aviator was badly injured, but not killed. These are just a few sidelights on what happens in this section to "keep you from forgetting that you are a dog."

I have been in some perilous situations. I have lived day and night under the cannon's roar. I have been where bombs were dropped not far away and shrapnel falling all around me, and within sight and sound of grenade fighting, which is the worst of all, and I thought there was nothing else to come, but these all sink into insignificance before the noise of eight French officers eating soup. This has come more nearly proving fatal to me than any of the engines of war. I can't get used to it. It gets funnier and funnier every day. Two or three times I have lost control of myself and got the "giggles" but they were so busy with their soup they did not notice.

I was interrupted at the above period by the bugle call of alarm announcing an air raid. So all lights had to be put out, which interfered with my writing. The raid did not amount to anything as our machines went out to meet them and they turned tail early in the game. As military activities began here this morning at five o'clock, I was aroused and thought I might as well get up. So I have a little time and will write a little more. My letters will be more or less incoherent from this time on as I can only write in snatches.

Mail is very slow and uncertain. In the active army during a big offensive the mail is not sent, sometimes for three days. I use the French civil post whenever I can, but in order to do that I have to walk to a neighboring village and I do not always have time for that when I want it.

I hear the grenades already getting in their deadly work, so no telling what the day will bring forth.

I sometimes stop and take stock and try to put a value upon things, but I find it hard to adjust. I do not know which is the greater service, teaching these boys and men to speak English or serving them chocolate and coffee.

Either one is pleasant and they seem to appreciate both. The life and atmosphere of this place is so very different from anything I have had before that I have hardly yet found myself. It is certainly a fine opportunity to study at first hand the real spirit of the French army and to see the relations between the French officers and their men.

At table everything is discussed with the greatest freedom, and I get a great insight into the military affairs that otherwise I should never have the opportunity of knowing. So far as I have observed, there is a much closer bond of feeling between the French officers and the enlisted men than there is between the American officers and men and very much more than existed between the officers and men in the Polish army. The officers of the Polish army were French Poles. I mean the high officers, and there was not much in common between them and the American Poles or the German Poles. I certainly did feel sorry for the ordinary soldier in the Polish army. I think I shall never be quite happy until I get back to the Polish army. They are a wonderful people. I shall follow the history of Poland after the war with more interest than that of any other country.

Fully thirty-three and one-third percent of the Polish regiment were American Poles and had been in America from 2 to 10 years and had acquired fair use of English. About as many were French Poles and spoke French. And for the others who could only speak Polish I bought a Polish dictionary and a few Polish books and dug into the study of the language until I mastered it sufficiently to carry on a simple, (very simple) conversation with them.

The amusement they get out of my efforts at pronunciation fully justified all the labor I put on it. That they were able to understand me is a tribute to their intelligence, rather than to my linguistic ability. When we got completely "stuck" we smiled at each other and some way we always understood. For a smile on the face of a Pole is the most illuminating and satisfying thing that can happen.

Speaking of language, I am not sure that I shall know how to speak in any tongue when I get back, not even the English. I have had to deal with so many nationalities that my ears and brain are bewildered.

When I was with the last division of the French army, to which was attached the famous Foreign Legion, known as the Moroccan Division, we had a perfect polyglot of language. There were Algerians, Arabs, Zengais, Moroccans, Portuguese, and I do not know how many others. Babel had nothing on us, but somehow we managed to get along. Some of these looked like cannibals. The soldiers who went into the trenches with them have many funny things to tell. When the real fight is on they know no law. An officer's command means nothing to them. They simply throw down their guns and all modern implements of war and with a knife or "dick" in each hand and one in their teeth, they go "over the top" and woe betide the German who falls in their path.

You may wonder how I could work among these half savage and what I do, or if there was anything in them that an American woman could reach. We were the only white women some of these poor creatures had ever seen and the only persons who had ever tried to reach that little spark of good that seems to be at the bottom of every human heart, if you try to reach it. At first I was afraid of them and expected to be beheaded and served up for their evening meal any day, but I soon overcame all such feelings and have trusted myself to their protection in an emergency with as much confidence as I would to that of an American officer.

There was one particularly fierce and savage looking one who became a great friend with me. Sometimes I would see him standing looking at me as an artist might at the Venus de Milo. When he would see that I had caught him, he would break in to a broad grin and either retreat or come and offer me his hand. Sometimes I had occasion to make a trip a short distance out in an army cart. These carts are very high and it is absolutely impossible to get either in or out without assistance. One evening I was returning, and there was no one in sight to help me out. While I was looking around for someone this big savage saw me and came running to my assistance.

Well I must close now, and do something towards "earning my board and keep."

Lovingly,
MYRTLE.

BIG INCREASES IN OHIO BANKS

(American Press)

Columbus, Sept. 9.—Ohio banks withstood the extraordinary money demands made on them during the first year of the war, declares State Banking Superintendent Berg in his annual report to the governor. The year was filled with startling revelations, he says, adding that no demand was too violent for Ohio banks to meet. "From the smallest to the most powerful bank in the state, the experience of the year has a refining influence," Berg asserts. Resources of state and private banks increased almost $300,000,000 in three years. Total resources June 29, date of the last bank call, were $972,915,000, compared with $688,212,000 June, 1915.

BROWNELL POULTRY CLUB IS PLANNING GREATER ACTIVITIES

The Brownell Poultry Club consisting of fifteen members, held its last meeting for the year's work Saturday at the Y. M. C. A. club rooms.

In the two years' work this is the first time that the local leader, Mrs. Frank Haines, has failed to be present at the monthly club meeting.

In her unavoidable absence, Mrs. Harl Allen, the county leader, presided.

Several dollars of prize money was divided, this club having taken a first, second and third competitive prize. It was agreed that they would either invest this money in thrift stamps or in poultry for next year's work.

The club work will be carried on another year and in addition to new stock raised next year the members will exhibit a pen of mature birds from this year's raising, and in addition to their poultry work each member will do some gardening for the purpose of exhibition and increasing the available food supply.

An invoice of stock was taken and altogether the club has about two hundred and twenty-five chickens.

It was moved a vote of thanks be tendered Mr. Henry Brownell for the interest he has taken in the County Club movement, and the substantial aid he has given it, and that the secretary be instructed to inform him by letter of the Club's appreciation.

Certain-teed

"Service" and "Conservation" are written in italics across the war-time record of Certain-teed Roofing.

It has given vitally needed shelter for munition plant, barrack, shipyard, factory, barn and granary.

It has taken nothing of military value in its manufacture,—waste rags and asphalt are its principal components, and both are useless for war purposes.

Its manufacture is accomplished largely by machinery, conserving labor; by water power, conserving fuel; by women workers, conserving manpower.

Certain-teed endures under all conditions. It is weatherproof, waterproof, spark proof and fire retarding. Rust cannot affect it. The heat of the sun cannot melt it or cause it to run. It is not affected by gases, acids, fumes, smoke, etc. These qualities have made Certain-teed the choice everywhere for factories, warehouses, stores, hotels, garages, office buildings, farm buildings and out-buildings.

In shingles, red or green, it makes an artistic roof for residences.

M'ADOO'S REPORT IS SUBMITTED

(American Press)

Washington, Sept. 9.—Government operations of railways for the seven months ending Aug. 31 are reviewed in the first report of Secretary McAdoo to President Wilson.

The report reveals that salaries paid railroad executives by the government are much lower than received from companies under private control, but they have not been pruned to the comparatively small figures of other officers in government service.

The seven regional directors of the railroad administration get between $40,000 and $50,000 a year and federal managers of individual roads on systems varying amounts between $5,000 and $40,000, although under private control salaries ranged as high as $100,000 for railroad presidents or chief executives.

At the same time it is shown that directors of the nine branches of the railway administration are paid salaries of between $20,000 and $25,000. Mr. McAdoo received nothing extra above his regular cabinet membership salary for his work as director general.

Of the 2,325 railway officers receiving more than $5,000 under private management, 400 presidents and other officers have been removed from government payrolls—though these may have been retained at company expenses—and the $21,320,000 paid officers in the aggregate under private control has been reduced to $15,062,000 by the government.

Explaining his policy of fixing salaries of executives, the director general said: "It is not only equitable, but necessary, that they should be justly remunerated and that the reward of brains, industry and loyalty should be sufficient to continually attract able men to the service of the railroads as their life's work. It is not merely a question of operating the railways during the period of the war—but it is a question of the post-bellum period as well, when work must continue to be sufficiently attractive to draw constantly to it men of the right quality and caliber."

In reviewing accomplishments of the government management, Mr. McAdoo laid stress on the railway administration's efforts to move coal as fast as mines can produce it, and denied that production is limited by lack of car supplies.

It was imperative and just to raise wages, the report said, and consequently necessary to advance rates 25 per cent.

SECRETARY BAKER ARRIVES IN FRANCE

(American Press)

Washington, Sept. 9.—The war department announced the arrival in France of Secretary Baker, accompanied by an official party, including John D. Ryan, assistant secretary in charge of air craft, and Major General Gorgas, surgeon general of the army. Mr. Baker and his party made the trip in an army transport which carried its usual quota of soldiers to France.

Before leaving this country the war secretary said the personnel of his party would make plain the purpose of his second visit to France, and that he hoped the trip would not keep him away from the United States for a very long period. It is understood that Mr. Ryan went abroad for the purpose of familiarizing himself with the aeroplane situation overseas and to inspect the factories engaged in building planes for the American army. Surgeon General Gorgas will inspect the American army hospitals overseas.

Brigadier General Frank T. Hines, chief of the embarkation service, who also accompanied Mr. Baker, will visit the American ports of debarkation in France to acquaint himself with the facilities and conditions in those places. Lieutenant Colonel George H. Baird, military aid to Mr. Baker, also is in the party.

WOMAN'S COMMITTEE IN THE COUNCIL OF NATIONAL DEFENSE

In order that no fruit may be allowed to go to waste because of a lack of sugar, the United States Food Administration in Ohio has arranged to distribute at once to County Food Administration Committees, certificates for 6,000,000 pounds of sugar for canning purposes.

To do this it was necessary to draw upon the future allotment of sugar for this State, but this step was deemed advisable by the Food Administration in view of reports from all over the state, particularly from the rural communities, that fruit is going to waste because of lack of sugar for canning.

It would be most unfortunate if any fruit were allowed to go to waste in Ohio this year because of lack of sugar. Sugar is very scarce, and we have no assurance that it will not continue to be scarce until the first of the year, but rather would we take a chance of getting our honor ration of two pounds per person per month for ordinary use during the last two months of the year than permit any food to go to waste now, because of a lack of sugar.

We most earnestly appeal to the patriotic housewives to use only enough sugar in canning to preserve the fruit—to preserve a part of the supply of fruits by methods requiring no sugar and to replace some of the sugar, ordinarily used with other sweeteners.

Sugar Saving in the Home

One patriotic housewife has found a new way to conserve sugar that does not have to be enforced, but is entirely optional with the members of the family. Each person in the family is given his or her portion of sugar each day. They can eat all of it at one meal if they so desire, but that means going without entirely for two meals. Whenever enough sugar is saved from the table supply she promises to make a cake or pie with the savings. In this way there is a reward ahead which is an ever tempting goal to young conservationists.

Maine Says "German Bluff"

The Federal food administration for Maine points out that it is unwise to put too much faith in news of food riots in Austria and Germany which emanate from the enemy whose censorship is not prone to emit the publication of news which would give the allied world a true idea of the state of affairs in Hunland. Germany has spread stories to lure the allied people into believing that she is on her last legs. German propaganda of this kind was responsible for a lot of pacifists' talk in England. We must not permit these stories to lull the United States into relaxing for a moment its effort to produce and save every last ounce of food for our Army and the allies.

The placing of too much faith in food-riot dispatches might have a tendency to discourage production or encourage wastefulness here. It is much better, therefore, to rate them as mostly Hun concoctions.

BEHIND BARS

(American Press)

Leavenworth, Sept. 9.—William D. Haywood, secretary of the Industrial Workers of the World, and 92 other members of the organization, convicted in Chicago on charges of violating the espionage act, were received into the federal penitentiary here. The trip, which was made by special train from Chicago, was without incident. Haywood, chewing gum and apparently at his ease, declared the recent bomb explosion in Chicago was very unfortunate and inopportune and that because of the occurrence they had been hurried to prison, interfering with their efforts to obtain bail.
